Sophie-Justine Lieber has been appointed CEO of Les Arts Décoratifs, effective July 2025. She succeeds Sylvie Corréard.

A library curator and State Councilor, Sophie-Justine Lieber has served as Director-General of the Public Institution for the Parc and Grande Halle de La Villette since October 2022. Previously, she held prominent roles within the Ministry of Culture, notably as Chief of Staff to Minister Roselyne Bachelot from 2020 to 2022. Her rich and diverse career reflects a consistent commitment to public service, artistic creation, and the transformation of cultural policies.

Her areas of expertise include copyright, digital affairs, and public governance. She has also served in various leadership roles, including Mediator for the Book Industry, Chair of the Art House Committees for the National Center for Cinema and Animated Image (CNC), and Chair of the Board of Directors for the École du Louvre. She is currently recognized for her ability to combine strategic vision, a strong sense of public service, and cultural innovation.

Sophie-Justine Lieber:

"Les Arts Décoratifs is a wonderful institution, rooted in history while embracing the contemporary. It has a unique structure that combines private and public support, as well as venues for cultural outreach and education. This model preserves and enriches a magnificent collection. I am thrilled to join its teams and embark on a new chapter together."

Lionel Sauvage, President of Les Arts Décoratifs:

"Sophie-Justine's background and personality were the primary drivers behind my recommendation to the Board of Directors that she lead Les Arts Décoratifs. Drawing on her previous experiences, she will be able to develop new projects and continue those already underway. Her strong motivation and deep humanity are invaluable assets for guiding the teams through this new phase of the institution's development. I would also like to commend Sylvie Corréard for her achievements and dedication during her six years leading Les Arts Décoratifs."
